Introduction to your Report

Congratulations on completing the first step in your career development. Whether you are just starting to explore careers or reconsidering your options, it is critical to make the right decisions based on all the information at your fingertips. The Jackson Career Explorer (JCE) report is one important resource that can start you on a path to finding a rewarding and satisfying career.

When reviewing your JCE report, understand that...

- Results only provide information about your interests - they do not indicate whether you have the ability, skill, personality, or education necessary to do a particular line of work.
- The report was designed as a self-help tool to guide you in choosing a career that matches your interests. Treat your results as a starting point for career exploration.
- Use other information to help you make career decisions (e.g., experience, skills, knowledge, talents, values, personal characteristics, and previous performance).
- Your interests can also be fulfilled outside of your job, through hobbies, community activities, family, education, and volunteer work.
- A trusted counsellor or advisor can help you integrate the information in this report with other sources, and can provide additional guidance and local resources.
- You are encouraged to find out more about the specific occupations and fields that interest you, such as job descriptions, work environments, education requirements, and labour market information.

Keep In Mind ...

Your answers were consistent and did not show any unusual patterns.

Basic Interests

What are they?

The Basic Interests represent your areas of interest and your preferences for 34 work roles and work styles. Work roles describe preferences for activities associated with certain occupations. Work styles describe preferences for certain types of work environments. All 34 Basic Interests are described in detail in Appendix A.

How are they helpful?

Use your list of Basic Interests to learn what types of job-related activities you would most enjoy and what types of activities aren't very interesting to you.

How do you interpret them?

Longer bars indicate your strongest interests and shorter bars indicate low interests. Your percentile scores reflect how your interests compare with the interests of other people who have taken the JCE. They represent the percentage of people who scored lower than you did on that interest. Note that males and females sometimes show different interest patterns. To see how your results compare to scores from people of your own gender, see the Detailed Scoring Information at the end of the report.

Keep in Mind...

Your Basic Interests are the building blocks of your results.

In fact, your Basic Interests were used to generate your rankings on all of the Job Groups.

Tip

Remember, your interests can also be fulfilled in areas outside of your job including hobbies, community activities, family, education, and volunteer work.

Work Personality Scores

What are they?

The Work Personality Scores reflect general patterns of interest that can be used to understand more about your personal work characteristics, work style, and preferred work environment. The 10 Work Personality Scores are described in detail in Appendix B.

How are they helpful?

Use your results on these Work Personality Scores to help you better understand yourself and refine your career planning.

How do you interpret them?

Longer bars indicate strong preferences for how you like to do things and approach your work. Shorter bars indicate preferences and approaches that are uncharacteristic of you. Your percentile scores reflect how your interests compare with the interests of other people who have taken the JCE. They represent the percentage of people who scored lower than you did on that work personality. Note that males and females sometimes show different interest patterns. To see how your results compare to scores from people of your own gender, see the Detailed Scoring Information at the end of the report.

Keep in Mind...

If you scored high on a Work Personality Score, many, but not necessarily all, of the characteristics will describe you. You may find elements of each Work Personality Score that describe you. See Appendix B for the Work Personality Score descriptions.

Generally, you will enjoy and be more productive in work environments that reflect your top Work Personality Scores.

Tip

Read the descriptions of your top Work Personality Scores, determine what characteristics best suit you, and combine these characteristics with your interests to help guide your career plan.

Education Groups

What are they?

Your ranking of Education Groups was determined by comparing your entire pattern of 34 Basic Interests to the interest patterns of university students enrolled in the education programs associated with each of the 17 groups.

How are they helpful?

Use your Education Groups rankings to determine what education programs might interest you the most, as well as those you may not enjoy.

How do you interpret them?

A positive score indicates that your pattern of interests is similar to the profiles of university students in the Education Group, while a negative score indicates dissimilarity. Sample training programs at various college and university levels for your high interest Education Groups are listed below.

Sample Programs

Education	Secondary Education, Music Education, Alternative Education, Elementary Education, Early Childhood Education & Development, Adult Education, Educational Psychology, eLearning, Tutor, Educational Assistant, Teaching English as a Second Language, Training & Development
Performing Arts	Music Education, Theatre Arts, Dance, Musical Theatre & Performance, Acting for Film & Television, Drama, Radio & Television Broadcasting, Motion Picture Arts, Applied Music
Social Service	Social Welfare, Child Development, Speech Pathology & Audiology, Psychology, Sociology, Rehabilitation Education, Addictions & Mental Health, Community Studies, Public Safety, Social Work, Community Support Worker, Autism & Behavioural Science, Child & Youth Worker, Community & Justice Services, Developmental Services

Keep in Mind...

A strong match between your Education Groups and your Basic Interests means that you share the same overall pattern of interests with students in these groups.

If your Education Groups don't seem to match up with the scores you received on the Basic Interests, it's probably because you share some interests with students enrolled in these programs, but you don't share the same overall pattern of interests.

Tip

This profile can help you understand how to integrate your interests with the type of learning program that suits you best. If your top Basic Interest scores don't match your scores on the corresponding Education Groups, you might consider an applied or hands-on alternative that doesn't require as much formal education.

Job Groups

What are they?

Your entire Basic Interest profile was compared to the interests of people working in 30 different Job Groups and the degree of similarity is ranked below. Scores indicate your probable interest and satisfaction with jobs in each group; they do not tell you whether or not you will be successful in any particular field or job. Additional details on your Top 3 Job Groups can be found on the following pages. All 30 Job Groups are described in detail in Appendix C.

How are they helpful?

Use your Job Group rankings to identify careers or sectors that you would enjoy and those that you may want to avoid.

How do you interpret them?

A positive score indicates that your pattern of interests is similar to the profiles of people working in these areas, while a negative score indicates dissimilarity.

Keep in Mind...

A strong match between your Job Groups and your Basic Interests means that you share the same overall pattern of interests with people working in these job groups.

In rare cases, one of your Job Groups may not align with your Basic Interests. This means that you share many, but not all, interests with individuals working in this field. It is recommended that you still explore sample jobs listed for this job group given that there may be a job listed that satisfies many of your interests.

Tip

Check out the Exploring My Options section at the end of the report for additional resources and suggestions for next steps in building your career plan.

Top Job Group #2: Teaching & Instruction

Occupations in Teaching & Instruction focus on education, instruction, course development, and research in specialized subjects. People in this field work in high schools, colleges, universities, and organizations. Teachers tend to specialize in specific subject areas, such as art, engineering, or the social sciences. Consider combining your interest in teaching with your other interests. An undergraduate degree and/or teacher education is required for most teaching jobs, while other jobs as instructors require specialized training in topics such as adult learning.

Exploring My Options

By completing the JCE, you have taken a very important step toward the thoughtful selection of your career. You have learned more about yourself, your interests, and how they compare to people studying and working in a variety of fields. The sections below will help you learn more about your areas of interest in order to continue to build your career plan.

Where do I start?

Web-based research can provide virtually endless information and resources. Start by searching topics related to your top job groups. In particular, look for information on:

- Job descriptions, tasks
- Working conditions
- Salary, wages
- Knowledge, skills required
- Education, training
- Apprenticeship opportunities
- Professional associations
- Employment trends
- Job prospects, outlook
- Potential employers
- Employment statistics
- Local labour market
- Industry-leading companies
- Job postings

Check out the following links as a starting point but let your search expand and grow as you generate alternatives, learn more, and eliminate options.

Who should I talk to?

Talk to people who have experience and who are willing to share their knowledge with you. This is the best way to get the most accurate and up-to-date information about careers that interest you.

- People working in the field
- Career or Employment Counsellors
- Teachers or Instructors
- Human Resource Professionals
- Guidance or Academic Counsellors
- Family or Friends

What can I do today to help me take a step in the right direction?

- Think about my Future. Respond to the questions below to help you understand more about the type of career and lifestyle that you want.
- Learn the Requirements. Research certification, education, and training requirements in your area.
- Interview. Contact someone in the field and set up an "information interview" with them.
- Job Shadow. Go to work for a day with someone who works in the field.
- Get Experience. Apply or volunteer for a position in the field.

Questions to consider before I choose my career...

The questions below provide help and direction if you feel overwhelmed by your career prospects. Your answers to these questions will change over time, but for now, reflect on how you see your future by trying to answer each question.

Type of Work and Work Environment

- Do I want to live and work in a small community or a large urban centre?
- Do I want to work for a big organization or a small organization?
- Do I want a job where I have to perform or speak in front of people?
- Do I want to be on my feet, sitting at a desk/computer, or driving for most of the day?
- Do I want to be doing hands-on work?
- Do I want to work indoors or outdoors?
- Do I want to be working on a team with other people or working alone?

Schedule

- Do I want to work a regular schedule, shift work, flexible or unpredictable hours?
- Do I mind being on-call, working casual, overtime or long hours?
- Do I want to work days, evenings or weekends?
- Do I want to travel as part of my job?
- Do I want to commute?

Personal Values

- What are my priorities in life? Work, family, travel, money, leisure activities, or something else?
- What do I want to get out of my career?
- What do I find personally rewarding?
- Do I want to be able to leave my work behind when I go home at night?
- Do I want to be able to devote a lot of my free time to hobbies, sports, volunteering, or other things?
- How important is salary? Benefits? Other employee incentives?
- Will I want to be promoted to a manager (or higher) someday?
- Do I want a challenging career? Do I perform better under pressure?

Experience and Education

- In what areas do I already have experience and knowledge?
- Do I have the education and courses I need for the career I'm considering?
- Are my grades strong enough?
- Do I want to invest the time and money to acquire more education?
- What other experience have I gained through hobbies, volunteer, or personal life?

Opportunities

- How competitive is it to get into the education/training programs and job market in the field I'm interested in?
- How many opportunities in this field are available in the community I want to live in?
- Will the opportunities be different once I'm done my education or training?
- Who are some potential employers?

Appendix B: Work Personality Descriptions

Assertive (As)	A high score on Assertive may indicate a preference for being in control and occupying a position of authority over others. You tend to be self-confident in your abilities and feel that you can make your own decisions without seeking advice or assistance from others. High scorers may sometimes be seen as outspoken and direct with others, and will enjoy working with people, especially in a dominant role. People working in environments such as the military, where this style of leadership is appropriate, frequently receive high scores on this Work Personality Score.
Conventional (Co)	A high score on Conventional indicates that you may prefer a well-defined role in a business or large organization. You likely enjoy the day-to-day operations of a business, such as overseeing office work, selling products, making decisions, and supervising others. You may prefer working in a stable, established organization to working in a constantly changing environment. You may also enjoy detail-oriented work, rather than work that requires high creativity, mechanical skill, or the potential for physical risk.
Enterprising (En)	A high score on Enterprising indicates that you likely enjoy work involving talking with others, especially if the purpose is to persuade or influence. You tend to be self-confident and outgoing in new situations. High scorers are usually interested in the marketing or management aspects of business. They are often motivated by conventional symbols of social status, such as money, influence and prestige, rather than other forms of recognition. In addition to careers in business, high scorers may enjoy careers in law, administration, public relations, and related areas.
Expressive (Ex)	A high score on Expressive indicates that others likely consider you to be artistic. You tend to enjoy creative activities related to drama, music, writing, and applied or fine arts such as painting, sketching, or design. You probably enjoy and appreciate the creative work of others. High scorers tend to be perceptive, inventive, sensitive, imaginative, and aware of their environment. People who work in the arts typically receive high scores on this Work Personality Score, but a high score can also suggest creativity in areas outside of the arts, such as teaching and engineering.
Helping (He)	A high score on Helping indicates that you tend to express a genuine concern for others, particularly those with problems or those who require assistance. High scorers enjoy social interaction, giving advice, and may be described as kind, comforting, sympathetic, supporting, charitable, and cooperative. If you scored high on this Work Personality Score, consider occupations in which you may take a direct role in helping, serving, or teaching others.
Informative (Inf)	A high score on Informative indicates that you tend to be interested in ideas and in communicating these ideas to others, especially through writing. You likely enjoy thinking about topics in great depth, reading, attending lectures, studying, and participating in thoughtful discussions. High scorers tend to have a broad range of interests and are often described as intellectual. Professional writers typically receive high scores on this Work Personality Score. However, since writing and communicating ideas are important in a wide range of occupations, many others score highly as well.
Inquiring (Inq)	A high score on Inquiring indicates that you are very curious about many aspects of society and the environment, including human and life processes. You likely have a strong desire to learn about many topics and subjects, and may be described as investigative, reflective, and inquisitive. If you scored high on this Work Personality Score, consider a career in the social or biological sciences, or in a profession that involves researching and analyzing information to solve problems.
Logical (Lo)	A high score on Logical indicates that you likely prefer working with data and facts rather than relying on intuition. You may enjoy work that involves rational judgment, precision, testing assumptions, solving abstract problems, and using sound reasoning to make decisions. You tend to enjoy intellectually stimulating and challenging work, particularly in the areas of mathematics and physical sciences, and in applications such as engineering and information technology. If you scored high on this Work Personality Score, you may prefer task-based work with objective data and facts to working directly with people.
Practical (Pr)	A high score on Practical indicates that you likely enjoy activities requiring physical or mechanical skill. You tend to seek satisfaction from the quality of the work you produce. You likely enjoy working outdoors and are not overly concerned about physical risks. You may tend to avoid activities that require you to be the centre of attention, and may not enjoy exerting influence over others. You may prefer practical, applied jobs that involve working outdoors, building things, and ensuring the comfort and well-being of others. High scorers may enjoy careers in agriculture, skilled trades, and service occupations.

Structured (St)	A high score on Structured may indicate that you tend to be a responsible, stable, and disciplined person who may prefer structured work to that which involves a great deal of creativity. You would rather be confident about a relatively certain and somewhat predictable future than accept the uncertainty of a riskier but possibly more rewarding prospect. You will likely favour occupations that offer stability and reward traditional values.

Appendix C: Job Group Descriptions

Career &amp; Guidance Counselling	Occupations involve providing guidance to people as they make life transitions. Responsibilities may include sharing important career or education information and resources with clients to help them make personal decisions and future career plans. Some jobs may also involve helping others understand and overcome personal problems. Many occupations in this group require post-secondary training in psychology, sociology, social work, education, or the social services.
Clerical &amp; Administrative Support	Occupations involve a variety of duties and responsibilities, such as preparing, transcribing, transferring, organizing, and storing documents, files, and records, and using business computer applications. Other responsibilities might include assisting customers, delivering messages, collecting accounts, and distributing information. As clerical work is a part of almost every operation, clerical and administrative jobs are listed under other job groups as well. Some jobs in this field require post-secondary education or specialized training in areas such as computer applications.
Commercial Art &amp; Design	Occupations use creative designs, plans, drawings, computer programs, and other artistic skills to develop, sell, and market a range of products and services. Jobs may involve decorating and furnishing homes and offices, designing the structure of buildings, or capturing images for advertising purposes. Many occupations in this field require artistic talent and specialized college or university training.
Communications &amp; Writing	Occupations involve writing for many different contexts, including materials for editorial, informative, dramatic, technical, or creative purposes. Writing and communication is part of virtually every field and can involve reporting, editing, promoting, and interpreting ideas and facts in written form. For example, many careers in journalism, business, research, social service, and education require reports and written communications. Look for writing opportunities that involve your other interests. Many jobs require post-secondary education in communications, English, journalism, or a specific subject.
Construction	Occupations involve making, building, assembling, and repairing products, buildings, roads, bridges, and machinery. Jobs may involve working with various materials, such as wood, stone, metal, and plastic, using equipment and tools like cement mixers and air hammers, or operating heavy machinery such as bulldozers. Many of these jobs require apprenticeships and on-the-job training.
Engineering &amp; Technical Support	Occupations focus on the application of the physical laws and principles of engineering to a variety of products, materials, structures, systems, and processes. Activities may involve designing roads and highway systems, researching solutions to environmental problems, developing computer hardware, consulting on health and safety practices, or supervising the manufacturing of electrical equipment. People working in this area generally have a high interest and ability in math and science. Occupations require a university degree or college diploma in a particular area of engineering, such as civil, electrical, mechanical, industrial, or environmental.
Entertainment	Occupations may include a variety of interests, such as drama, dance, and music, as well as creative writing for radio, television, and motion pictures. Jobs range from directly performing for an audience to making creative decisions about scripts, actors, and choreography. An interest in this area can be fulfilled through activities outside of your career. Most jobs in this field require natural talent while some provide training on the job and others require specialized training.
Financial &amp; Business Services	Occupations involve maintaining, analyzing, and interpreting financial and business records, and working with institutions and the public regarding banking and financial planning. People working in this area may provide various advisory services, draft statements, keep record of billing collection and status of accounts, examine budget estimates, and prepare taxes. Many occupations in this group require post-secondary education in subjects such as accounting, commerce, economics, or business administration, although some provide training on the job.
Fine Art	Occupations involve representation, design, and personal expression through different types of artistic media, such as painting, drawing, photography, and sculpture. Related jobs may include illustrating for books or comics, designing and arranging layouts for printing, or planning and organizing the exhibition of art collections. An interest in this area can be fulfilled through areas outside of your career. Jobs in this field require artistic talent and often specialized education.
Health Services	Occupations cover a wide range of jobs that provide a variety of healthcare services. Job responsibilities may include assessing patients, providing special therapies, preparing medications, giving x-rays, conducting laboratory tests, operating medical tools and equipment, and using specialized knowledge and training to assist healthcare providers with specific medical treatments. Most of these jobs require specialized training and education.

Human Resources	Occupations involve planning, directing, and coordinating employee activities and resources. Tasks and responsibilities include recruiting, selecting, and training employees, maintaining employee information on compensation, benefits, and performance, developing workplace policies and procedures, and mediating disputes between employees and employers. Many jobs require post-secondary education or specialized training or certification through professional development courses.
Information Technology &amp; Computers	Occupations involve working with computers, numbers, and formulas. There are a wide range of jobs in this group. Duties and responsibilities might include developing, programming, maintaining, and updating computer applications and software, designing and evaluating network systems, designing Internet websites, and providing computer-related technical support. Most jobs in this group require either a university degree in computer science or engineering, or a specialized college diploma. Computers play a role in almost every discipline, so look for computer-related occupations involving your other interests as well.
Law &amp; Government	Occupations involve legal and government services. Jobs and responsibilities might include legal representation of individuals, organizations, or government, preparation of legal documents, providing legal advice services, conducting research, developing laws, policies, and procedures, and ensuring compliance with regulations. Many jobs in this group require a university degree or specialized college diploma in legal studies.
Life Science &amp; Research	Occupations are focused on the study of living organisms and in applying this knowledge in specific areas, such as food science, microbiology, environmental science, health science, and forestry. People working in this area may work in laboratories as scientists, researchers, technologists, and technicians. Jobs may involve designing and conducting research through lab tests and experiments, using scientific technology and equipment, and preparing research or technical reports. Most occupations in this group require college or university education.
Machining &amp; Mechanical Trades	Occupations involve repairing mechanical and electrical equipment and operating, controlling, and setting up machines used to prepare, manufacture, and create materials. Responsibilities may include cutting, fitting, shaping, or printing materials, such as metal, paper, wood, and stone, according to required specifications. There are a wide variety of jobs in this field so look to combine your interest in this area with your other interests. Specialized training and apprenticeships are usually available for this type of work.
Management &amp; Administration	Occupations involve supervising employees and planning and overseeing activities in the workplace. Many administrative roles also involve counselling, coaching, and supporting employees. A range of tasks are involved with management, but some focus on formulating policies, guidelines, programs, and procedures that provide overall direction to the team, unit, or organization. Some management jobs require post-secondary education; however, many can be acquired with several years of relevant job experience.
Mathematics	Occupations involve working with numbers, formulas, research, and statistics. Applied work might combine with other fields such as the physical, life, or social sciences, engineering, computer programming, economics, financial services, and education. Tasks may include data analysis for research, determining statistical probability of risk, technical problem solving, and decision-making based on calculations. Jobs in this area require a high level of interest and ability in mathematics. Consider combining your interest in mathematics with your other career interests.
Medical Diagnosis &amp; Treatment	Occupations include various branches of medicine that are highly focused on the prevention, diagnosis, and medical or surgical treatment of illness, disease, and disorders. Responsibilities may include examining patients, ordering, performing and interpreting diagnostic tests, prescribing medication or other therapies and treatments, and counselling patients on diet, hygiene and preventative healthcare. Occupations in this group require a high level of medical education.
Merchandising &amp; Marketing	Occupations involve those that contribute to the sale of products in a wide variety of fields. Responsibilities may include negotiating and contracting for the purchase of materials for use or resale, determining the demand for products and services, developing pricing strategies, monitoring market trends, and analyzing marketing systems. Careers in related areas include advertising, sales, distribution, printing, and clerical work in the merchandising field. Some jobs may require post-secondary education, while others provide training on the job or require several years of experience.
Music	Occupations involve the composition, arrangement, performance, and/or direction of instrumental or vocal music. Musical skills can be incorporated into various medical and/or social service functions and into areas of special education as well. Keep in mind that a professional career in this field is typically highly competitive and often requires high levels of talent. Interests in music can also be satisfied through hobbies, volunteering, and social activities. Training in a specific instrument or musical skill, extensive practice, and musical talent is often necessary for a career in this field.

Nature, Agriculture &amp; Environment	Occupations typically include farming and working outdoors. Jobs involve a range of activities such as planting, cultivating, and harvesting crops, tending to nurseries and greenhouses, raising animals, and managing, improving, and protecting natural resources. Related jobs might include landscaping, gardening, and groundskeeping. This interest can often be fulfilled through recreational activities and hobbies outside of your work. Both post-secondary education and on-the-job training are available for many of these jobs.
Physical Health &amp; Recreation	Occupations typically involve individuals who have an interest in physical health and education, sport, and recreation. Tasks and responsibilities may include providing and promoting athletic, fitness, or rehabilitative programs, instructing recreational activities to improve the physical health of people, training, coaching, and evaluating athletes, or officiating and enforcing rules at athletic events. Consider satisfying an interest in this field outside of work through hobbies or recreational activities. Many jobs in this group require post-secondary education or specialized certification, while some may provide on-the-job training.
Physical Science &amp; Research	Occupations involve research aimed at the discovery of scientific principles and their application to specific fields such as chemistry, physics, geology, astronomy, and environmental science. Jobs involve conducting lab experiments, analyzing data, designing research equipment, developing synthetic substances, and studying cause and effect relationships. Most jobs in this area require post-secondary education and a high interest and ability in mathematics and sciences.
Primary Education	Occupations involve teaching and helping pre-school children and students in elementary schools. These educators teach the fundamentals for a broad range of subjects, including math, literacy, science, social studies, and art. They also promote the physical, mental, and social development of children. Most jobs require teacher education or post-secondary training in child development or early childhood education.
Protective Services &amp; Public Safety	Occupations involve protecting the public from accidents, injury, crime, and fire, and providing emergency services to people in need. Jobs in this area seek to ensure the health and safety of others by adhering to guidelines, laws and regulations. Responsibilities may include administering first aid, educating the public on fire and crime prevention or public and workplace safety, investigating crimes or accidents, or rescuing people from danger. Most jobs in this group require specialized training or education.
Sales &amp; Business Development	Occupations cover a broad range of products and services, and might involve selling investments, insurance, real estate, advertising, or specific products and services. Jobs could involve telemarketing, customer service, retail sales, product demonstration, marketing, and advertising. Most sales work involves having a good understanding of the product or services and customer service skills. Look for sales work involving your other interests as well. On-the-job training is often provided but some employers require post-secondary education.
Service &amp; Hospitality	Occupations are highly focused on ensuring the physical and social comfort and well-being of people, on either an individual or group basis. These jobs provide a wide variety of services to others, such as food service, accommodations, travel and tourism, and personal services, such as hairstyling and esthetics. Responsibilities may include serving patrons at a restaurant, booking airline tickets, cleaning hotel rooms, or giving a client a manicure. Most of these jobs provide training on the job; however, some may require specialized education.
Social Science &amp; Research	Occupations involve studying human society and social behaviour through subjects such as psychology, sociology, anthropology, economics, political science, history, and geography. Jobs may involve collecting and analyzing data, searching archives, compiling information, researching, writing reports, studying trends, or examining artifacts. Social scientists work in a variety of settings, such as universities, government, and businesses and often conduct research in their chosen field. Most occupations in this group require a university or graduate degree.
Social Service &amp; Mental Health	Occupations provide individuals, families, organizations, and communities with psychological, emotional, physical, and social support. Responsibilities may include delivering counselling and helping those in need, holding workshops and information sessions to educate the public, writing reports, identifying and evaluating social and community-based program needs, and consulting with clients and patients on a wide range of social and personal situations to provide guidance on life problems and issues. Jobs in this group often require college or university education.
Teaching &amp; Instruction	Occupations focus on education, instruction, course development, and research in specialized subjects. People in this field work in high schools, colleges, universities, and organizations. Teachers tend to specialize in specific subject areas, such as art, engineering, or the social sciences. Consider combining your interest in teaching with your other interests. An undergraduate degree and/or teacher education is required for most teaching jobs, while other jobs as instructors require specialized training in topics such as adult learning.
